Dania—can you give Jonathan a call when you get a chance? Sounds like this pm or tomorrow will be fine...

Hey Rich, thanks. Not a problem if today doesn't work for you guys. The election is keeping me busy.

Hi Jonathan—thanks for your call yesterday to Libby Faulk here at EPA regarding site assessment work being done at a series of uranium mines in South Dakota. Dania Zinner is EPA's lead for the preliminary assessment activities at the mines, she indicated she would try and call you today about where we are at and next steps. If you don't have it already, she can get you a copy of the preliminary assessment as well.

EPA's ongoing review of Powertech's application for the Dewey Burdock project is a separate activity. Our review of the project and associated technical information is focused on the legal requirements established under the Underground Injection Control program, which is designed to ensure the protection of underground sources of drinking water.

I hope this helps. Sorry this took a bit, I was out sick yesterday.
